

What products exemplify how this STS formation has developed over time?

A special issue on STS was published by the academic journal Toplum ve Bilim in July 2018. The issue is significant for being the first thematic journal publication in Turkish academia on STS and is a collaborative project of IstanbulLab. It aims to introduce the field of STS to Turkish-speaking scholars and situate the intellectual and institutional genealogy of STS in Turkey. It features articles on a breadth of issues (public understanding of scientific and technological controversies; science and art; experts and infrastructures; biology and biotechnologies; and industry and production relations) and from a variety of approaches (actor-network theory; feminist technoscience).
